Good morning!

We appreciate your continued efforts and those of your boss as our country continues to navigate the COVID 19 public health emergency. Today we posted a new blogpost called, Will college during the pandemic be segregated?. We thought the perspective offered by Laura Rodgers, a college student and disabled woman, on the challenges that colleges and universities face when addressing the rights and needs of students with disabilities when reopening this Fall during COVID19 could support your continued work.

We are happy to set at time to talk more

Thank you,
